

WOMAN FAINTED IN COURT-ROOM

Her Wild Shrieks After Brother Had Been Remanded Were Heard in Crowded Broadway and Park Row.

RACED INTO CORRIDOR AS THROG LOOKED ON.

Bonaiuto and Another Had Just Been Found Guilty of Having Sold False Certificates of Naturalization.

The usual calm, sedate and peaceful corridors of the Federal Building were suddenly alarmed to-day by the wild, piercing shriek of a woman.

It came from the big room of the United States District Court. The second shriek came from the corridors, for the young woman, frantic with grief, had left the court-room and was racing about the great triangular hallway, giving vent at each step to an ear-shattering scream.

Twice about the triangle she ran, shrieking until she was heard by people down in busy Broadway and Park Row.
After completing the second circuit she ran back into the court-room and fell in a faint.

She was Marie Bonaiuto, as pretty a black-eyed belle as has come to this port from Southern Italy for many years. Her brother, Camille Bonaiuto, with A. Consolabile, had just been found guilty by a jury in Judge Thomas's court of having sold false certificates of naturalization.

"I will remand you to the custody of the United States Marshal for sentence on Monday," said Judge Thomas to the prisoners, when from among the several hundred Italians who crowded the room rose the frail, swaying figure of the distracted sister.

She uttered no intelligible word. It was a high-pitched shriek which caused the judge to place his hands to his ears.
The crowd about the girl fell back and she staggered through the door into the big hall. Her screams interrupted other courts and crowds rushed out to learn the cause of the disturbance.

On the second trip around the building her path was through the throng. Exhausted, but still shrieking, she staggered back into the court-room where she came and fell to the floor in a faint.
After being revived the young woman was taken to her home by friends.

MOTHER AND SON HAVE DISAPPEARED

Mrs. Cora Wadsworth and Ten-Year-Old Boy Missing from Their Jersey City Home Since Last Tuesday Evening.

A general alarm has been sent out by the police of Jersey City and New York for Mrs. Cora Wadsworth, of No. 230 Pacific avenue, Jersey City.

She left her home Tuesday evening with her ten-year-old boy, telling her husband he was going out for a walk and that she would be back directly.
Since that time the police and her friends have been making an exhaustive but futile search to discover the whereabouts of mother and child. The general belief is that Mrs. Wadsworth became demented suddenly.

Mrs. Wadsworth was dressed in dark clothes of the texture. The boy wore a blue sailor suit and a sailor cap.

BRIDAL COUPLE ELUDE PURSUIT

Mr. and Mrs. Walter B. Todd Leave Carriage at a Corner and Are Whisked Away in Automobile to White Plains.

GREENWICH, Conn., Oct. 22.—Tormenting friends were outwitted last night by a bridal pair, who sped away in an automobile to White Plains, while the bride's carriage led the friends a merry chase over other roads.

Miss Lucy Walsh, daughter of ex-Secretary of State Judge Robert J.
Walsh, was the bride and Walter Bradford Todd, a banker, son of the late Dr.
Todd, of Ridgefield, was the bridegroom.
Judge Walsh aided the couple in following their friends from the start. He obtained an exact duplicate of their steamer trunk and sent it to the baggage office the day before the wedding.
Then word was sent to the fun-loving friends that the trunk was there.

Postmaster Scofield, Judge Burnes, Judge Walsh, Contractor Veir and others went to the depot, seized the trunk, put it on the keyhole and daubed in red roof paint "Tootsie Wootsie." "Love Dovey" and other sweet words all over it. The trunk wasn't shipped.

After the big reception last night handcuffs were tied on the bride and bridegroom until they told their destination for the honeymoon. Judge Walsh's carriage was ready for them to step into, when they quickly fled. The vehicle turned a sharp corner and Mr. and Mrs. Todd vanished and jumped into an automobile.

Away they sped through Edgewood Park, and in forty minutes were at White Plains depot. Friends in other carriages chased the Walsh carriage and felt foolish when they found it empty and learned that an automobile had snatched their victims away.

"BAR DIVORCED WOMEN FROM YOUR FAMILIES!"

That is the Spirit of the Roman Catholic Church—Cardinal Gibbons Describes the Ideal Woman.

CARDINAL GIBBONS DESCRIBES THE IDEAL CHRISTIAN WOMAN.

"The great model for the woman in whose hands is the upbuilding of the homes of this country is Mary herself. This ideal woman, who yet is real, has the beauty of the soul rather than of the body, which delights without intoxicating. The contemplation of her excites no inward rebellion, as too often happens with Grecian models.
She is the mother of fair love, devoid of sickly sentimentality or sensuality. In her we find force of will without pride or imperiousness.
We find in her moral strength and heroism without the sacrifice of female grace and honor—a heroism of silent suffering rather than of noisy action.

"And when there are enough women of this type who clasp hands with the Church across the world's follies and wicked and foolish beliefs, the question of 'race suicide,' the divorce problem and unhappy marital experiences will no more be heard of."

"His Eminence would say that Catholic ladies cannot well take upon themselves to regulate the customs of society, situated as they are in this country. Therefore he would not say that they should not meet married divorced people in general gatherings.
But he would advise them neither to invite such people to their social functions nor to accept any invitations from them to attend theirs."

Extract from a communication signed by the secretary of His Eminence, Cardinal Gibbons.

There should be no question among Catholics as to their attitude toward persons living in open violation of the most sacred law of matrimony. Would such be suitable society for their children.

ARCHBISHOP FARLEY.

The Roman Catholic Church has declared itself positively, squarely and openly on the divorce question.

A divorced person, as divorces are granted in this country, is sentenced to almost complete social ostracism.

They must not be invited into the homes of those who obey and respect the laws of the church.

Should a divorced person give a social function, those who would obey the edicts of the Church must not attend, although invited.

Catholics may meet and mingle with divorced persons at common meetings, or at social functions not in their own homes but the Church makes it very plain that in the home, where the marriage tie is sacred and where the spirit of the Church is to be instilled in the minds of the children, the divorced person is forever barred.

The quotations from Cardinal Gibbons and Archbishop Farley were used by the Rev. J. H. McMahon, Director of the Cathedral Library, in his lecture, "Divorce in Its Practical Aspects to Catholics," delivered before the Catholic Literary Association at the Hotel Majestic.

In speaking of the relations of Catholic families with divorced persons, Father McMahon said:

"Persons who are not only divorced according to the civil law, but who insisted upon remarrying before the death of their previous partner, should be punished even to the extent of social ostracism. The Church recognizes the legality of separation from husband and wife for various serious offenses, but Catholics should remember that this does not justify the remarriage of divorced persons." He said that it sometimes happened, however, that Catholics had not only been divorced, but remarried, and that their Catholic relatives and friends had attended the subsequent ceremony. Such relatives and friends are almost as much to blame as the participants, because they did not have to resist surging passions." While such social Catholics should be ostracized, this should be of a social nature, and they should personally be the hope that repentance might come even on their death-beds.

Father McMahon said that the popular idea that no divorce was recognized by the Catholic Church was erroneous. A great many Catholics do not understand the Church's attitude toward divorce, he said.

Divorces Recognized.

He remarked that a certain species of divorce is recognized by the Church, as, for instance, when a marriage has not been consummated it can be dissolved by the Church, and further, there is what is called the "Pauline privilege," because the authority for it is given in one of St. Paul's Epistles. This relates to marriages between persons not Christians. When one party becomes a Christian and finds it impossible to live with the other the Church sanctions a divorce from the non-Christian.

"Unhappily," said Father McMahon, "this privilege is liable to abuse. In ordinary sense, as popularly understood, the Catholic Church recognizes no divorce when the marriage has been ratified by Catholic or Christian rite and consummated."

In referring to the second marriage of Senator Dewey he said the law of the Catholic Church absolutely forbade the celebration of marriage by a Catholic priest when there was to be a subsequent marriage by a Protestant clergyman. He said that in this case there was first a marriage performed by the cure and that he had been deceived as to the fact that there would be another ceremony performed by a Protestant clergyman.
